

Hult International Business School launches Hult Undergraduate Honors Track program; students can earn both Bachelor and Master degrees in just four years

(March 10, 2010 – London) Hult International Business School has launched an innovative academic program in which qualified students can earn both Bachelor and Master degrees in just four years. The Hult Undergraduate Honors Track program not only provides a quality education within a compressed time frame, but also offers students the chance to study at up to three of Hult’s five global campuses located in Boston, San Francisco, London, Dubai, and Shanghai.

Applications for Hult’s programs have surged for the school year beginning in 2010 with undergraduate programs increasing by 70 percent. With the new Honors Track program, Hult can now accommodate the increased interest in developing professional skills at an earlier stage for students.

“This is an unprecedented opportunity for Hult students,” says Hult President Dr. Stephen Hodges. “The ability to earn two degrees in four years gives students a competitive edge that is both financial and academic.”

Students who opt for the accelerated program can join the workforce earlier with an undergraduate degree, plus either the MIB or MAIR degrees. The reduced time frame will save students an estimated GBP 42,000 in education costs. In addition, Hult provides students with an international environment that is unmatched elsewhere, with a campus located in the heart of London, and a student body comprised of 80 nationalities.
